

212 Catalysts proudly welcomes Michael A. Brown to its Advisory Board. A disciplined architect of growth and a steadfast servant leader, Michael has built and led high-performing global teams that redefine modern revenue development. His career spans startups to Fortune 500 enterprises, driving measurable impact across sales, marketing, and customer expansion while partnering with globally recognized brands and cultural icons.

As Head of Global Revenue Development at Reltio, he leads an operation widely regarded as best-in-class, scaling performance while earning industry recognition for innovation and excellence. A 6sense Luminary and Forrester Peer Advisor, he is a trusted voice shaping the future of go-to-market strategy.

Rooted in Austin, Texas, and a graduate of The University of Texas, Michael's influence extends beyond business into civic leadership and mentorship. His appointment reflects 212 Catalysts' commitment to principled leadership, expanded access to opportunity, and enduring community impact.
